

Magdalena Dall

Magdalena Dall works as a research coordinator at the research institute for developmental medicine. She is currently doing her PhD, looking at the link between social communication and mental health and the influence parent-child interaction has on it. Her background is in public health.